The 2016 Léoville Barton has the highest ex-négociant release price since the 2010, perhaps justifiable given its exceptional Quality score – the best since 1985.

“Really a standout Barton. So unusually supple! [...] This will surely be one of the vintage's longer-living wines. Glorious texture and flavour. [...] Very good freshness – much fresher than many of its peers. Real energy.”

“Very straight, remarkable balance in terms of acidity, notes of character in the nose, between cedarwood and cigarbox typical of the Léoville.”
