Branaire-Ducru 2017: Quality score vs average market price

Branaire-Ducru's 15% discount on 2016 is a decent gesture, and puts the 2017 below the market price of 2016 and well below 2009 and 2010, but around the same level as the higher-scoring 2015. With volumes down c.40%, demand could just be enough to sustain this price.

“Deep cherry red. Fragrant with pure, pretty cassis on the nose. [...]. The tannins are light enough to give balance.”

“Smooth texture, fine tannin, just a subtle savoury note developing and merging nicely with the black fruit, hints of white pepper and cedar [...] that is quintessential Saint-Julien.”
