Lynch-Bages 2017: Quality score vs average market price (£)

Lynch-Bages 2017 will likely come onto the market between current prices for 2014 and 2015, and well below 2016, making this a well-judged release and it would be no surprise if it was one of the trade's bestsellers again.

“Supple tannin, very refined, a touch of white pepper and cedar with impressive depth on the finish.”

92-95 Antonio Galloni (Vinous)

91-93 Neal Martin (Vinous)

17 Julia Harding (JR.com)

“Wine of impeccable balance and class.”

“Deep and still elegant, with refined dark fruit, super-fine tannins and a long harmonious finish. Shapely and elegant.”
