

Les Carmes Haut-Brion is the only château with a Bordeaux post code, cellars in the shape of a sail boat (designed by Philippe Starck), and wines available in Marie-Jeanne bottles (225cl).

Canon continues to benefit from its acquisition by the Chanel group. 2015 was the vintage that cemented Canon's rise, and the 2016 was voted the trade's fifth most successful wine en primeur.

Figeac is a sleeping beauty, now wide awake after a period where it didn't fully capture all the potential of its exceptional terroir.

La Conseillante is a Pomerol property that has been owned by the same family since 1871. The last three years have seen great steps to improve the quality under the new direction of winemaker Marielle Cazaux.

Calon-Ségur is a wine undergoing a renaissance, in terms of both quality and brand. Huge investments have been made – the quality has soared, the brand is on-trend, but prices remain reasonable.

Troplong Mondot was acquired by French Insurance company Scor in 2017. Under the new direction of Aymeric de Gironde the wine has become more refined and less extracted.

Léoville Las Cases is a fine and aristocratic Saint-Julien. 2018 is the last vintage produced in its old cellar – the château is undertaking cellar renovations set to last for the next three years.

Lafite has a completely new management team, with Baron Eric de Rothschild recently handing over to his daughter, Saskia. The Rothschild family celebrated 150 years of the château's ownership last year.

Rauzan-Ségla (Canon's sister property) also benefits from Chanel's unstinting commitment to investment, and has reached new heights. It has gone from reliable to must-have.

Vieux Château Certan is improving its wine quality through more and more precise viticultural practises. This is a Pomerol providing excellent value.

Recognised for its price performance post en primeur release

ONE OF THE MOST TALKED-ABOUT WINES BY THE TRADE, WITH MENTION FREQUENCY IN THE TOP 10% OF WINE LISTER SURVEYS Brand #2 Saint-Émilion red for its Brand score of 978

CONTINUES TO IMPROVE ITS AGEING POTENTIAL

The best is yet to come. // - Place de Bordeaux

ONE OF THE MOST AFFORDABLE OF BORDEAUX BUZZ BRANDS, WITH AN AVERAGE PRICE OF £72 PER BOTTLE (IN-BOND)

*Identified by Wine Lister's Founding Members in our last survey in response to the following question: "Thinking about likely future prestige, which 10 producers will collectors wish they had in their collection in five years' time?"